Apparently there was some disappointment with regard to the extent of the money market relief measures announced yesterday afternoon by the Secretary of the Treasury, and seemingly there was also some increase in the concern felt with regard to the outturn of the election. The American department of the London market was again feverish and depressed, while other quarters there continued steady. Foreign houses again traded on a large scale in the local market, and were sellers on balance of upward of 50,000 shares.

Await the Settlement.

It was upon the conclusion of this selling that the local stock market showed its first disposition to rally. It was considered likely that the liquidation for foreign account would have been heavier except for the fact that the general settlement upon the London stock exchange begins tomorrow. and this necessitated the remittance of the proceeds of today's sales by cable trans-

Contangoes for the settlement in the Kaffir department today ranged from 71/2 to 81/2 per cent, and there was much interest expressed in the rates likely to be quoted for American stocks at the making-up day tomorrow. Houses with foreign connec-tions have been commonly advised that there must take place further heavy transof American stocks now carried

The opinion was commonly expressed i banking circles that the efficacy of the most recent relief measure adopted by the Secretary of the Treasury would depend almost entirely upon the extent to which the national banks are prepared immediately to take out new circulation. There is ordinarily involved in this process the lapse of about three weeks for mechanical purposes, but some of the larger banks usually keep a reserve supply of notes on hand for such emergency purposes as are involved in the present situation. Little alteration was observed in money-market conditions today, the rates for loans on call averaging somewhat lower than yesterday's mean figures. Price move-ments in general showed the same degree of uniformity which has been exhibited since last Friday, upon the announcement that the Bank of England had advanced its rate of discount to 6 yes cont its rate of discount to 6 per cent. There were, of course, some exceptions to the general drift of prices, a rather striking advance taking place in National Biscuit common, while the remainder of the mar-

The feature of the trading at today's BULLS AND BEARS Applicants Will Receive Attention in sold several lots within the range of 57% to 57, including one of one hundred shares. Fifty-seven seemed to be the low limit, and the cheaper offerings that were made gregating seven hundred shares. However, forthcoming, and in fact there was no very extensive scale for the market in its present condition.

I nepite of that fact, however, there seems to be an idea among the brokers that gas stock at the present prices is cheap. As the regular dividend yields 4 per cent on fifty such a view must be based upon the prospect of an extra dividend. Payments of that sort are made every now and then by this company, and there is apt to be more or less of a speculative move ment in the stock in anticipation. In this way the general public sometimes gains knowledge of the fact beforehand.

The better prices paid in Boston teday for Mergenthaler did not bring the market here up to that level. In Boston, it was reported, that the stock was selling for 206, while here sales were made at 2051/2, and fractionally higher. All the stock that was to be had up to 205% was taken.

There was considerable trading in Michell mining at a fractional falling off from the level of yesterday.

The daily clearings of the local banks run up to about $900,000, which is an unusual amount, especially at this time of the month. As compared with former years this shows a large increase and gives an idea of the volume of the daily business of the city that is rather impressive.

The million-dollar mark is often reached. The million-dollar mark is often reached, and such an aggregate is another evidence of the expansion that is going on in all branches of activity.

A study of the course of events convinces the Wall Street Journal that the financial power of London is declining, while that of New York is rapidly advancing.

"The Bank of England's rate of discount," it states, "has been the balance wheel of the money market for many a decade. It is still a great power. But it no longer possesses the significance which it had only a few years ago. In 1890, when the bank rate was pushed up to 6 per cent, it spelled disaster of world-wide import.

"Today the bank rate is pushed up to 6 per cent, and it is explained as a fear on the part of the directors of the bank of the power of New York to draw more gold the power of New York to draw more gold from its reserve stores. • • • We are no longer doing business in millions, but in hundreds of millions, and the scope of our operations is on such a colossal scale that it requires the united power of European finance to deal with the situation under these new conditions. This does not mean that New York has become the financial center of the world. It has not yet. But it is forging ahead faster than any other of the international markets."

mated in this column yesterday evening, prominent speculators understand very definitely that before the day was over Secretary Shaw would announce some plan Washington connections was taken as contoday, however, that banking interests in ment late yesterday afternoon, the only question being the form in which the relief hould be given. It was intimated, too, that Mr. Shaw was willing to bring forward at this time a more potent relief measure than the one he made public, but that he was given to understand that it that he was given to understand that it would be unwise to do anything at this time that would specially encourage speculation. It was believed by well-informed interests that if the active demand for money existed after election the Secretary would announce a considerably more comprehensive relief measure than that given out yesterday. In the meantime it was thought that if encouraging in stocks was thought that if speculation in stocks was kept within proper bounds there would be no serious trouble as to the money market.

It is learned that hanking interests would have been better satisfied with the demonstration of considerably less strength in stocks than was recorded. In other words, these interests are decidedly opposed to special activity in the market prior to November 6, and until the general money market is in better shape. They point out if large sums of money are required to finance a speculative movement it will be practically impossible to adjust the money market for some little time to come.

A banker of this city who is actively interested in the political campaign, particularly up the state, and who is watching the situation very closely, said this morning that the indications are now stronger than at any time in the campaign so far that Mr. Hughes will be elected by a safe majority. In discussing the situation somewhat in detail he said that a canvass of several counties indicates that the rural vote, both demi ocratic as well as republican, will be very largely in favor of the republican candidate. This canvass also indicates that the mill and factory element, which heretofore in a good many instances has been largely democratic, will at least break about even. In some cases it is learned that the vote, which hitherto has been at least 75 or 80 per cent democratic, will be practically the same in favor of the other side. In the case of some manufacturing institutions, he and indicated that apparently it will be impossible to get a definite idea as to this vote before the election actually takes place.

The marked strength of the Colorado and Southern issues yesterday, particularly the common and second preferred, was undoubtedly due to buying by interests which are aware that a favorable announcement will be made before long affecting all of these securities, particularly the second pre-

INCREASE OF CIRCULATION.

Acting Secretary Keep of the Treasur Department announced today that application under Secretary Shaw's offer of yes terday will be favorably acted upon in the order in which they are received at the treasury. If, however, a national bank ould apply for an increase of two or three millions, or even less, it probably would be necessary, in the interest of smaller banks, to grant the application as to only a par of the sum asked for, and so extend the rivileges conferred by the Secretary's offer as large a number of banks as possible.

CONSENT NOT SECURED.

One Party to Proposed Marriage Not

Inspector Boardman of the local detective force was asked today to lend his assistance in a peculiar case involving Fritz Lis, a young baker, and Miss Anna Seliner. The latter's father and brother announced that Lis had procured a license to marry Miss Anna without first securing the consent of the young lady. They declared they had been to see Lis and he had surrendered the license to them.

Capt. Boardman assured the father and brother that the mere issuing of the license did not mean that the ceremony had to follow as a matter of course, as Miss Sellner need not marry Mr. Lis unless she cared to do so. He said, however, that he would instruct the police in the vicinity of the Sellner home on Mount Pleasant street to Sellner home on Mount Pleasant street to keep their eyes open for possible trouble.

It is understood that Lis, after procuring the license to marry Anna Sellner yester-day, arranged with Rev. Henry Schroeder, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, to per-form the ceremony. The minister received a call from the father and brother of the girl today and was very much surprise to hear their story. He, too, assured them that the marriage would not take place without the young lady's consent, license or no license.

OBJECT TO ASPHALT BLOCK. Citizen Protest Against Its Substitution for Sheet Asphalt. The announcement that the Commission ers will use asphalt block to pave and repair streets throughout the District, because of their inability to receive bids within the amount specified by Congress for sheet asphalt, has called for a number of protests from citizens. The majority of the latter are persons who do considerable driving and they contend that the asphalt block is not much better than the ordinary Belgian block, which, as a matter of fact, was never invented for driving or to afford any comforts.

Dr. Charles B. Gilbert of 1444 Rhode Island avenue northwest, in a letter of protest to the Commissioners, stated that as a driver he would enter an earnest protest against the laying of asphalt block on the city streets. He said that even the sheet asphalt has its faults and is not perfect, but the asphalt block is very unpleasant, especially after it has become a little worn. He concluded his communication by saying, "To my mind there is nothing equal to sprinkled macadam on streets and roadways in a city of the climate of Washington. With such a pavement Washington would make a fair summer resort." land avenue northwest, in a letter of pro-pleaded guilty to petit larceny. Justice Stafford, in sentencing McKnight to serve three months in the workhouse, took into consideration the fact that the prisoner had spent three months in jail awaiting triel to show that Harry J. Hallock in August last was papering a house in the northwest section of the city, and in putting on his working clothes hung on the wall his street clothes, which contained $43. The defendant was working about the premises, and, it is alleged, took the money from the trousers pocket. Immediately thereafter the defendant fled to New York, where he was apprehended in September and brought here. Bronaugh was remanded to jail to await sentence.

In the Criminal Court.

Frank McKnight, an elderly man, when called for trial today before Justice Stafford in Criminal Court No. 1 withdrew a plea of not guilty, formerly entered to an indictment charging grand larceny, and trial.

McKnight was placed in charge of a schooner at Philadelphia, Pa., in July last to bring the vessel to Washington. After his arrival here the indictment charges that he took the hawser of the boat, valued at $60, and sold it for a trifling sum.

Assistant United States Attorney Turner told the court the hawser had been in use for some time and its present value did not exceed $25, which reduced the offense to petit larceny.

William Bronaugh, colored, was today convicted by a jury in Criminal Court No. 1, before Justice Stafford, of grand larceny. The testimony adduced at the trial tended to show that Harry J. Hallock in August
